

All-electric new construction incentives are here

If you're building a new home, consider a high-performance, all-electric home.

These homes include features to maximize comfort, indoor air quality, efficiency and convenience while minimizing maintenance, energy use, and greenhouse gas emissions.

Eversource offers incentives up to $10,000, as well as technical assistance to support builders, developers, and homeowners in the construction of new all-electric, high-performance homes, including multi-family projects.
