

Energy Efficiency Tips for Summer Comfort and Savings

This summer, consider some energy-saving practices to increase your comfort at home and reduce your energy usage.

- Use a clothesline. Let the warm summer sun do the drying for you to avoid adding the heat created by the dryer to your home
- Get grilling. Cooking outside is a great way to keep heat created by cooking appliances outside of your home
- Weatherize. Properly insulating and air sealing your home can reduce your heating and cooling costs by up to 20 percent. For a $75 copay, you can receive a Home Energy Solutions<sup>SM</sup> assessment and service, where an authorized contractor will conduct important safety tests and install on-the-spot energy-saving improvements. You may also qualify for up to 75 percent off insulation. Visit eversource-ct.com/hes to sign up today

Improving Comfort and Saving Energy: A Customer Success Story

Latasha, a new homeowner in Middletown, Connecticut, faced the task of renovating her century-old home, which had outdated windows and poor insulation. Concerned about her family's safety and comfort, Latasha sought assistance through Home Energy Solutions<sup>SM</sup> - Income Eligible to address her home's energy inefficiencies.

Through the program, Latasha embarked on making upgrades, including the installation of triple pane windows and insulation throughout her 2,200 sq. ft. house, estimated to save over 2,100 kWh of energy over their lifetime. These improvements enhanced comfort and yielded immediate positive impacts, such as reduced energy bills and environmental benefits equivalent to planting over 25 trees or eliminating the CO<sub>2</sub> emissions from 170 gallons of gasoline consumption.

“Eversource was the steppingstone into this whole weatherization process. I’m grateful they offer these types of programs to help new homeowners complete major energy efficiency renovation projects like mine.”
